Why the scope, is difficult to say. It took both hands to hold the trigger and release the bolt. The magazine emptied before the hand releasing the bolt could reach the fore stock to support it. Therefore, trying to aim through the scope was impossible.

The fired projectiles were rough on three sides, undoubtedly due to burrs left in the bore from drilling, but they did have one distinguishable land and groove. As mentioned above it fired extremely fast, but was no problem to control. Unfortunately, this type of conversion is probably more prominent that we all know about and hopefull this article will be helpful to anyone else who may sometimes encounter something similar.

AN AFTE THANK YOU

On behalf of AFTE, the Editorial Staff would like to offer the association's warmest 'thank you' to Mr. Fred Wiener of Unitron Instruments, Inc., Forensic Department (A Subsidiary of Ehrenreich Photo-Optical Industries, Inc.) for supplying the handsome blue binders for the AFTE Directory.

As many of you know, Fred is an exhibitor, and usually attends the AFTE Meetings (the past several one's to the best of my knowledge) and in addition to selling his fine products, join's in the spirit of the meetings.

Again our thanks to you Fred for the donation of binders.
